INTRODUCTION

The 1956 Chicago Cardinals Press, Radio and Television Guide includes statistics and other information concerning the Cardinals' thirty-six years in the National Football League.

Professional football is similar to major league baseball in scope and fan interest. Your readers or listeners may ask questions you are unable to answer. If this happens, we would consider it a privilege to be of assistance.

We sincerely appreciate your wonderful cooperation in the past and say "THANKS A MILLION"—in advance—for the same cooperation in the future.

CARDINALS' HISTORY

By EDDIE MCGUIRE

The Chicago Cardinals, oldest professional football club in Chicago, or any other major city in the nation, was organized in 1899 as the Morgan A. C. The team became a charter member of the American Professional Football Ass'n (the great Jim Thorpe was president of the league) when it was organized in 1920, and today the Cardinals are the only team operating in the same city they were in when the league was founded. The 1956 season will be the 56th year of competition for the Cards. The team disbanded for lack of opposition in 1907, resumed play the next season, disbanded again in 1918 due to the flu epidemic, but went into action again in 1919.

The Cardinals also won the last pro football championship Chicago has been honored with, the Big Red turning the trick in 1947 when they won the Western Division title and then defeated the Philadelphia Eagles, Eastern Division champions, 28 to 21, at Comiskey Park. That was the game in which Charley Trippi ran 75 yards and 45 yards, and Elmer Angsman tore up the middle of the field twice for gains of 70 yards, each scoring two touchdowns and Pat Harder adding the four points after in a most colorful game. The following year both teams again won their division championships and the Eagles defeated the Cards, 7 to 0, in the never-to-be-forgotten "Snow Game" in Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia.

To get back to history, the Cardinals name came about when Chris O'Brien, organizer and owner of the Cards, bought some Cardinal jerseys for a pretty good price, and as the team was operating at 61st and Racine, named the team Racine Cardinals. The Racine part of the name was dropped in 1922 when the Horlick's Co. in Racine, Wis., were awarded a franchise in the National League. In 1920 there was a team operating under the name Chicago Tigers, owned by Gil Falcon, and getting into the late Chris O'Brien's hair. They were playing at Wrigley Field and questioning the Cardinals' supremacy. O'Brien challenged the Tigers, the stake being the losers franchise as a pro team. The Cardinals defeated the Tigers, 6 to 3, when Paddy Driscoll ran 40 yards for the only touchdown of the game and O'Brien owned two franchises. O'Brien had signed Driscoll to a contract calling for $300 a game, and a guarantee of $3,000 — ten games.

George Halas' team, the Staley's of Decatur, Ill., wanted to move into Chicago but couldn't do so unless O'Brien, Chicago representative in pro football, gave his okay. The late Joe Carr, president of the American Professional Football Ass'n in 1921, appealed to O'Brien to give his permission for another pro franchise for Chicago, to be known as the Chicago Bears. In 1922 George Halas' franchise was transferred from Decatur to Chicago with O'Brien's blessing. The same year the league name was changed to the National Football League.

In 1925 the Cardinals won the league championship and O'Brien sold Driscoll to the Bears for two reasons — most important (to O'Brien) was that he needed money to pay off some debts left over from his championship season, and secondly, to give the Bears a big name to combat Red Grange who, along with C. C. Pyle, was organizing a new league. Grange had made his pro debut on Thanksgiving Day, 1925, playing with the Bears against the Cardinals in a game which ended in a scoreless tie. Old timers will never forget that day because Driscoll, probably the most popular player in pro ball, was roundly booed during the afternoon because he wouldn't punt the ball anywhere's close to Red Grange. They had paid to see Red run and 36,000 fans didn't hesitate to let Paddy know that they weren't appreciating the masterful job he was doing with his educated toe.

When the Cards won the title in 1925 there were twenty teams in the league, a total exceeded only once in the league's 36 seasons of play, that being in 1926 when there were 22 teams.

Down through the years the Cards have had a great number of great players. The first Cardinal team (Morgan A. C.) lined up as follows:

Since then some of the players who wore Cardinals uniforms are Hugo Bezdek, Gene Rose, Doug Belden, Ernie Nevers, Irving Hill, Fred Gillies, Milan Creighton, Chuck Kassell, Gwyn "Mule" Dowell, "Red" Strader, LeRoy Clark, Paul Schissler, Chief Elkins. Jack Chevigny, Wilfrid Smith (Tribune Sports Editor), Bill Whalen (Chicago American Yachting Editor), Gob Buckeye, Nick McInnerney, Dr. Eddie Anderson, Judges Rog Kiley, Duke Slater, and Norman Barry, Willis Brennan, Johnny Mohardt, Red Dunn, Lennie Sachs, Pete Steger, Jack Crangle, Mike Mikulak, Tim Moynihan, Mickey McDonald, Arnold and Ralph Horween (Harvard grads who played under the name of McMahon), George Grosvenor, Frank McNally, Pat Coffee, Ralph Claypool, Lou Gordon, Jimmy Lawrence, Bernie Hughes, Dwight Sloan, Howard Tipton, Al Nichelini, Pete Mehringer, Bill Smith, Tony Blazine, Walt Kiesling, Paul Sarboe, Ki Aldrich, Ike Mahoney, Conway Baker, Al Babartsky, Bus Mertes, Marshall Robnett, Joe Kuharich, Dick Evans, Bill Daddio, Chuck Holmer, Gil "Cactus Face" Duggan, Tarzan White, Milt Popovich, Mario "Motts" Tonelli, Gil Berry, Bree Cuppoletti, Lloyd Madden, Ted Isaacson, Ed

Franchises in the American Professional Football Ass'n were valued at $100 for charter members in 1920. The New York Giants were awarded a franchise for $2,500 in 1925. Membership was boosted to $10,000 in 1933 and to $50,000 in 1940. In 1948 Fred Mandel of Chicago sold the Detroit Lions for more than a quarter of a million ($250,000) dollars.

Professional football has come a long way since the early 1920's when the two Horween boys of Harvard played under assumed names with the Cardinals. Their parents thought the pro game degrading and the general public looked upon pro football players as individuals who clawed, bit, kicked and gouged out the opposition's eyes.

Today National Football League teams may carry 33 men on their rosters and most teams are right up to the limit. Chris O'Brien, original Cardinals owner, who passed away in 1951, got quite a kick out of that.

"When the league started we carried 14 to 16 players. Of course carrying any more would mean going farther in the hole every payday because the money didn't come in at the gate, but there was an additional reason," said O'Brien. "We started eleven players, just like they do today, but if you took one of the players out for anything less than a fractured skull or broken leg, you had a disgruntled player who wouldn't talk to you for a week. None of the players wanted to sit on the bench, so it cost more for utility players than some of the men who were in there playing sixty minutes." (Editor's Note: Among the regulars were Tackle-End Wilfrid Smith, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune; Center Bill Whalen, yachting editor of the Chicago American; Tackle Fred Gillies, president of Acme Steel Co., and Dr. Eddie Anderson, an end, now head coach at Holy Cross. This foursome were members of the 1925 championship team.)

Of course, those days are gone forever to pro football. Today most players specialize in offensive or defensive play. You have the two-three and four platoon system.

The Cardinals were the first team to go to an out-of-town training camp. Dr. David J. Jones, city physician, purchased the Cards on July 27, 1929, appointed Ernie Nevers coach of the club, and they went to Coldwater, Mich. to train. It was in 1929 — Nov. 28 — when Nevers set an individual scoring mark which still stands. He scored six touchdowns and kicked four points after as the Cards beat the Bears, 40 to 6.

The most colorful and potent Cardinals team was the 1947-1948 club which the late Charlie Bidwill assembled prior to his death on April 19, 1947. In 1946 the Cards had Paul Christman at quarterback, Pat Harder at fullback and Marshall Goldberg for right halfback. Charley Trippi, who is an assistant coach with the Cards, was due to join the club for the '47 season, and, as the late Bidwill put it "That will complete my 'Dream Backfield'," Trippi moving into the left halfback job to complete the quartet.

Unfortunately Mr. Bidwill never lived to see this foursome in action. However, they and the rest of the personnel loved their late owner, and along with Coach Jimmy Conzelman, went on to win the world's championship for Charlie Bidwill.

That club proved the scourge of the league for those two years. Elmer Angsman, the former Notre Dame star had moved in at right half to replace Goldberg who was the league's outstanding pass defense man. With Christman, Trippi, Angsman and Harder in the backfield, and Billy Dewell and Mal Kutner as outstanding pass receiving ends the team rolled up a total of 4,351 yards and 306 points in 1947, and 4,705 yards and 395 points in 1948. The club won nine and lost three in '47 and won eleven and lost one in 1948, winning the Western Division championship both years. On Dec. 28, 1947 the Cards won the world's championship, defeating the Philadelphia Eagles, 28-21, in Comiskey Park, and on Dec. 19, 1948, in Connie Mack Stadium in Philadelphia, the Cards lost, 7 to 0, in the world's championship game.

Of the 12 teams which now constitute the membership of the National Football League, only four who were in the circuit when the Cards won the 1925 championship — the Cards, Bears, Green Bay and the New York Giants — have continued to play year in and year out without interruption. The series between the Cards and Bears and Cards and Green Bay, are the oldest in football, and it may be added, the most bitter.

In 36 years of league play and 55 seasons of football competition the Cardinals have had three owners — the previously mentioned Chris O'Brien and Dr. Jones, and the present owners, Mrs. Walter Wolfner and her sons Charles W. Jr. (Stormy) and William V. Bidwill. Mrs. Wolfner is the widow of the late Charles W. Bidwill who purchased the club October 24, 1933.

CARDINALS COACHES

RAY RICHARDS, Head Coach

Ray this year is starting his second season as head coach of the Chicago Cardinals football club. Last season was his first as a head coach in pro ball and the Cardinals had their best season since 1950. In the "Coach of the Year" voting, Richards was among the coaches receiving votes.

Richards, has been in football — high school, college and pro ball, since he was 16 years old. A bit of quick mathematics reveals that the new Cards head man has been active as a player and coach for 33 years, inasmuch as he is now 49 years old.

Ray started as a tackle in high school in Pawnee City, Nebr.; played for Coach Dana X. Bible at the U. of Nebraska in 1927-28-29 and was an All-America selection in his senior year.

In 1930 he started his pro career playing with the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets in the National League. In 1933 he was with Chicago, with Detroit in 1934 and was back the following two years.

Late in the 1936 season he joined the newly-formed Los Angeles Bulldogs team as player-coach. He went back to college in 1938, taking a job as Line Coach at UCLA and remaining there for ten years during which time two of his teams went to the Rose Bowl. The latter was considered quite a feat inasmuch as UCLA was growing up and not in a class with USC and other schools in the Pacific Coast Conference.

He moved to Pepperdine College in Los Angeles as line coach in 1948 and was head coach the following two years. In 1951 he got back into pro ball as Line Coach for the Los Angeles Rams.

Richards did a terrific job with the Los Angeles line, moving nine rookies into the offensive and defensive combinations which went on to win the world's championship in 1951 and lost to Detroit in a divisional playoff in 1952.

In 1953 Richards joined former teammate Keith Molesworth, who was head coach of the Baltimore Colts. Richards joined the Chicago Cardinals as assistant coach in 1954.

There isn't any question but what Richards should be a great success as a head coach in professional ball. He has the right philosophy, temperament and has the ability to coordinate the efforts of his players and assistant coaches.

Richards is a stickler for harmony. He believes that a happy athlete is more efficient, a better thinker and, as a result, is capable of doing a much better job. He feels the same way about his assistant coaches in regards suggestions to improve the play of the club.

The combination of coaches collaborating with one another and with the players, means that the Cardinals are a happy family, a frame of mind which means a much improved, more aggressive and hustling ball club.

JOHN KELLISON, Talent Scout and Ass't Coach

"Honest John" has been the Cardinals' talent scout for two years. John has been in the coaching profession since 1917 when he was assistant to Greasy Neale at West Virginia Wesleyan. They were together until Neale retired after the 1950 season. "Best talent scout in the game," says the veteran Greasy Neale.

BOB NOWASKEY, End Coach

Nowaskey starts his third season as an assistant coach with the Chicago Cardinals. Bob was born in Everson, Pa., Feb. 3, 1918; moved to Scottdale, Pa., where he attended high school and starred in basketball and football. Was given a basketball scholarship at George Washington U. and then proceeded to be one of the collegiate world's outstanding defensive ends. In 1940-41-42 he played here in Chicago. In 1943 Bob started a three-year hitch in the Navy. With the Los Angeles Dons in the All-America Conference in 1946 and 1947, traded to the Baltimore Colts in 1948. Went into coaching in 1951, becoming head man at Calvert Hall Prep where he remained until joining the Cards in 1954.

CHUCK DRULIS, Line Coach

Chuck is in his first season as an assistant coach with the Cardinals but is a familiar face in Chicago due to gaining All-Pro guard honors in 1948 and 1949 while playing here in Chicago from 1945 thru first half of the '50 season when he retired because he was in the automobile business. Chuck was born March 8, 1919 in Girardville, Pa. All-Eastern guard at Temple U. in 1941. In Service 1942 until 1945. Returned to pro ball, following retirement mid-season 1950, with Green Bay Packers as assistant coach, with Packers through 1953 and joined the Philadelphia Eagles as assistant in 1954, and remained through last season.

WALLY LEMM, Assistant Coach

Lemm is another familiar face in these parts. Wally is a native Chicagoan but moved to Milwaukee in his youth. Attended Shorewood High in Milwaukee and Carroll College in Waukesha, Wis. (former Cardinals training camp). Was a football, basketball and tennis star in high school and college. First coaching job was assistant to Hugh Devore, present Philadelphia Eagles coach, at Notre Dame in 1945. Returned to Carroll as assistant football coach in 1946-7 and was head coach at Waukesha High in 1948. Moved to Lake Forest College (present Cardinals training camp) in 1949 where he was head basketball coach from '49 thru 1954; assistant football coach until becoming head man for '52 and '53. Lake Forest won Conference title in '52 and Wally's team led Nation in pass defense. Was head football coach at Montana State College last two years.

CHARLEY TRIPPI, Assistant Coach

The name "Charley Trippi," one of the most famous in the history of football since he first hit the headlines nationally as a member of U. of Georgia's Rose Bowl team in 1941, was the Chicago Cardinals first draft choice in 1945. Joined the Cards in 1947 and sparked the team to a world's pro championship. Now, after nine seasons as one of the top players in the National Football League, he continues his association with the Chicago Cardinals as an assistant coach. Trippi was born in Pittston, Pa., Dec. 14, 1922, and started football career as a center at Pittston high. Started collegiate career at Georgia but was interrupted for Service with the Fourth Air Force. Returned to Georgia after his discharge and was an All-America selection during the '45 and '46 seasons. Has a record for playing with the Tribune College All-Stars which will probably never be equalled. He competed as a player in four games and was voted the Most Valuable Player Award for the 1945 game. Joined the Cards in 1947 and his appearance at left half completed the late Charlie Bidwill's "Dream Backfield" consisting of Quarterback Paul Christman, Fullback Pat Harder and Right Halfbacks Elmer Angsman and Marshall Goldberg. Trippi has been the league's best all-round performer in pro ball, and there is every indication that Charley will be every bit as successful as an assistant coach. During the off-season Trippi makes his home in Athens, Ga.
